(1) Curriculum Design/Development/Revision and Evaluation

(c) Information and Technology Literacy

The Suffield Board of Education recognizes that a planned, systematic, on-going and integrated curriculum for information and technology literacy is essential. The Board believes that all staff and students should become independent, competent, responsible and confident users of information and technology.

The Superintendent is responsible for developing training procedures and programs for both staff and students. Such programs should emphasize classroom applications of the specific technology(ies) and provide all staff and students with equal access to the materials/equipment.
